Fr. Luke Dysinger, O.S.B. is a Benedictine monk of Saint Andrew's Abbey Valyermo, California, where he has been a member of the monastic community since May, 1980. He has served the monastery in the past as novicemaster and prior; he is presently juniormaster, librarian, and second cantor. He teaches marriage and human sexuality, bioethics, patristics, and the history of Christian spirituality at Saint John's Seminary in Camarillo. He also serves as adjunct faculty and teaches: monastic formation at the School of Theology of Saint John's Abbey in Collegeville, Minnesota; and the history of Christian spirituality at Loyola-Marymount University. Prior to joining the monastery he trained as a physician.
